About Us

Everything started when a seed had fallen on the soil and this seed had grown up. Rain became a close friend to the land, and when the very first plant had grown up, man became connected to this land. First man looked for rain and he followed it, then he looked for fertile lands. Once again this friendship became a mean for humanity to make its own civilizations. Civilization started with the first seed which had grown up because of the rain and by that time the first fields appeared, since that time many flourished civilizations with houses of more than ten thousands year old have appeared. Every time men harvest the lands, new states appear then these states become countries.Agriculture had a main role in establishing civilizations and it still plays a very important role to keep civilization till our days.
