About Us

Offering a full range of hydraulic tilting systems since 2008, CNC can meet all market needs in the transportation, construction and heavy-duty mining industry, providing reliability, high performance and durability. CNC is a reliable partner for all hydraulic parts in the hydraulic system. In principle, CNC regularly analyzes the requirements and dynamic structure of the sector it is in and constantly updates itself depending on the current changes. We assist our clients from inception through design and production and use our years of hydraulic experience to guide them through these stages, offering help and guidance until they are satisfied with their finished design and finally their finished product. Our experienced support team can also offer expertise should the customer have post-purchase questions.
