About Us

About the CompanyTicicard is a next-generation digital business card platform that enables individuals and organisations to share their contact details in a fast, modern and sustainable way. By combining NFC and QR code technologies, our system allows phone numbers, email addresses, websites, social media accounts, location details, product catalogues and corporate links to be shared in a matter of seconds via a single card. Having developed digital transformation-focused solutions since 2020, Ticicard offers a practical alternative to the problems associated with traditional business cards, such as printing costs, difficulties in updating information and the risk of cards going missing. When their contact details change, users can update their information instantly via their own management panels, rather than having to print new
